

BIOSAFETY TRUST CERTIFICATION - by

Now it is the best time to think about the future. In order to fight the Covid-19 and to prevent new possible infections, RINA developed the Biosafety Trust Certification.

What is the purpose of the certification?

The purpose of this certification is to try to mitigate and reduce the spread of infections to protect people. This certification provides guidelines and guidance as long with a set of best practices in order to decrease the risk of spreading of infections in private and public places. The idea of the document is to build an internal system based on the PDCA cycle (Plan – Do – Check – Act), while placing also emphasis on the analysis of behaviour through Organisational Behaviour Management (OBM): the discipline based on scientific laws that explains human behaviour and allows for its prediction and control. Therefore, following the procedures in order to achieve the certification will help to identify both eventual managerial problem as long as problematic behavior and habits and thus creating a system with defined responsibilities and efficient procedures.

What are the advantages?

Obtaining the Biosafety Trust Certification means to initiate a path of improving and joining a new mind-set, in addition to instilling trust among customers, employees and business partners which will provide various advantages:

- ❖ it may ensure the strengthening of risk management capacity, providing to the company the ability to ensure better continuity and reliable services and, if in the unlikely case of incident, a faster ability of reaction.
- ❖ it may lead to a reduction of costs (direct and indirect) that can be caused by the interruptions of the production, or the inability to provide the service
- ❖ it can provide a lower exposure to financial risks, in fact if there are no risk of spreading of infections, it may lead to reduction of cost in insurance premium.
